

Invesco MSCI Kuwait UCITS ETF

This marketing communication is for consumer use in the UK and Ireland only, and for Professional / Qualified Investors and Qualified Clients as specified in the Important Information section. It is not for consumer use in other countries. Please do not redistribute. Investors should read the legal documents prior to investing.

This factsheet contains a summary of the Invesco MSCI Kuwait UCITS ETF, an exchange traded fund (ETF), and is for discussion purposes only. Please consult the Key Investor Information Document and prospectus and note the additional important information overleaf.

Investment objective

The Invesco MSCI Kuwait UCITS ETF aims to track the net total return performance of the MSCI Kuwait 20/35 Index, less fees. The Fund is passively managed. The investment concerns the acquisition of units in a fund and not in a given underlying asset.

Key product characteristics

- The synthetic structure of the fund allows an effective replication of the benchmark
- Transparent fees and costs

Risk warnings

For complete information on risks, refer to the legal documents. The value of investments, and any income from them, will fluctuate. This may partly be the result of changes in exchange rates. Investors may not get back the full amount invested. As a large portion of this fund is invested in less developed countries, investors should be prepared to accept a higher degree of risk than for an ETF that invests only in developed markets. The Fund's ability to track the benchmark's performance is reliant on the counterparties to continuously deliver the performance of the benchmark in line with the swap agreements and would also be affected by any spread between the pricing of the swaps and the pricing of the benchmark. The insolvency of any institutions providing services such as safekeeping of assets or acting as counterparty to derivatives or other instruments, may expose the Fund to financial loss. The Fund might be concentrated in a specific region or sector or be exposed to a limited number of positions, which might result in greater fluctuations in the value of the Fund than for a fund that is more diversified. The value of equities and equity-related securities can be affected by a number of factors including the activities and results of the issuer and general and regional economic and market conditions. This may result in fluctuations in the value of the Fund. The fund might purchase securities that are not contained in the reference index and will enter into swap agreements to exchange the performance of those securities for the performance of the reference index. The Fund's performance may be adversely affected by variations in the exchange rates between the base currency of the Fund and the currencies to which the Fund is exposed.

About the index

The MSCI Kuwait 20/35 Index captures the large and mid-cap securities of the Kuwait market. The weight of the largest group entity in the index is constrained to 35% and the weights of all other entities are constrained to a maximum of 20%. The index covers approximately 85% of the free float-adjusted market capitalisation in Kuwait.

Performance

ETF performance is in the fund's base currency and includes reinvested dividends. ETF performance is based on Net Asset Value after management fees and other ETF costs but does not consider any commissions or custody fees payable when buying, holding or selling the ETF. Historical index performance prior to the index launch date of 27 Aug 2019 is simulated and has been calculated by the index provider using the index rules. The ETF does not charge entry or exit fees. Each period starts at the end of the indicated month. The first indicated month may not represent a full month and may start only on the launch/restructuring date indicated in this factsheet. Past performance does not predict future returns.

What are ETFs?

ETFs are open-ended UCITS funds. Unlike traditional open-ended funds, ETFs can be bought and sold on a stock exchange like ordinary shares.

How does this ETF achieve its investment objective?

The ETF employs a synthetic replication method; it owns a diversified portfolio of equities that may differ from the benchmark index. To achieve the investment objective, the ETF contracts with one or more banks (each a counterparty), which agree to pay any difference between the portfolio performance and the index performance, less any applicable fees. These contracts are known as swaps. Using swaps ensures accurate index tracking but introduces counterparty risk: if a counterparty failed to pay the index performance due under the swap contract, the ETF would instead rely on the performance of its portfolio of equities, which could be lower than the index performance. An ETF's exposure to a swap counterparty is limited by the UCITS regulation, and further limited by measures that we impose.

Glossary

A-shares Mainland listings of Chinese companies, traded in local currency.

Benchmark An index serving as a reference; a means of comparing securities' valuations.

Beta A measure of how strongly a fund reacts to shifts in its benchmark. A beta of 1 means that the fund price varies, on average, just as much as the benchmark; a beta of more than 1 means that the fund price varies more than the benchmark; a beta of less than 1 means that the fund price varies less.

Bluechip company Bluechips are the shares of large, high-revenue-generating companies. Bluechip shares are traded heavily and generally with low volatility.

Corporate Governance Corporate governance is the legal and practical framework for managing and supervising companies to the benefit of all relevant stakeholders.

Derivative Derivatives are financial instruments whose prices are driven by the price shifts or price expectations of another financial instrument, which is called the "underlying". Many derivatives are designed to react disproportionately to shifts in the price of the underlying. Derivatives can be used for both hedging and speculative purposes. The most common derivatives are certificates, options, futures and swaps.
